

VNS Health Asian-American Community Hub “Tackles Inequalities” in Flushing

The Queens Times, Dec 22, 2022

Last Monday, notable leaders from the Queens community joined VNS Health to celebrate the opening of the home health care nonprofit's new Community Center in Flushing. The new center is a welcome resource for many people living in the neighborhood.

Notable guests and speakers at the grand opening celebration included Congresswoman Grace Meng, Queens Borough President Donovan Richards, Council Member Sandra Ung, and other health care partners and leaders from the Chinese American community.

The new center is one of three VNS Health Community hubs serving the Asian-American community in Queens, Manhattan and Brooklyn, where another new center opened in Sunset Park on Dec 5th. The Flushing center is a place where seniors can easily access culturally competent care, education and connect with local health and social support resources.

At the Grand Opening event, VNS Health CEO and President CEO Dan Savitt emphasized the importance of connecting disadvantaged populations, particularly low-income older adults with the support they need to live healthy lives. “We are so proud to be deepening our connection here in Flushing. Our goal is to help simplify health care, make it easier to access, and meaningful for our neighbors in the community. We look forward to serving you in this great new community center.”
